Chipola's 'Greater Tuna' opens Nov. 1

The Chipola College Theater is in full rehearsal for the hit comedy, "Greater Tuna," which opens a four-day run, Nov. 1.

The popularity of "Greater Tuna" has even extended to the most distinguished home in the country, with Command Performances at the White House upon the invitation of President and Mrs. Bush in 1990 and again in 1991.

The plot of Greater Tuna centers on the death of Judge Roscoe Buckner, of an apparent stroke, while wearing a 1950 turquoise Dale Evans one-piece swimsuit with "lots of cowgal fringe." Among the subplots are Stanley Bumiller's attempts to walk the straight and narrow after a stint in reform school, Bertha Bumiller's trying to hold her family together, and the Smut Snatchers of the New Order's attempts to censor books (including the dictionary) at the local library. Recommended age 13 and up.

For information about Chipola Theater, call 718-2227.
