ASSIGNMENT AND/OR COURSE OUTLINE

Task 8.3.1: Integrating Literacy Skills into Instruction

Teaching reading, writing, and study skills is an integral part of teaching any subject and no longer a concern just for elementary teachers. In this task the teacher creates two lessons that include strategies to assist students in comprehending expository text through reading and writing activities. One lesson requires the use of a pre-reading guide and the other requires the demonstration of a study skill strategy. The third component of this task focuses on the students keeping a journal and learning log.

All tasks must meet the criteria for “demonstrated” as determined by the scoring rubric to earn credit for this course.

All Tasks and Assignments are due at the beginning of class on the due date unless otherwise specified by the instructor. Work not submitted at the time the instructor collects it will be considered late and will receive a zero (0) for the grade. Late tasks may be submitted within one calendar week of the due date for Demonstration purposes only, but the zero (0) grade will remain.

A task judged as “not demonstrated” must be resubmitted for the purpose of demonstrating the FEAP indicators. Resubmissions must be received by the beginning of class on the due date indicated by the instructor on the rubric when it is returned to the student. Although the original grade is final and no points are added for resubmissions, failure to resubmit by the deadline will result in a ten-point penalty PER DAY grade reduction.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION
Methods of instruction may include, but not be limited to: lecture; class discussions and/or interactions; large and small group projects; role play and group discussions; read and report on professional education and subject matter articles; oral presentations; clinical experiences with reflective papers; videos and discussions; collaborative learning activities; participation in a series of model lessons designed to reflect strategies for the integration of literacy development and practice with the teaching/learning process; readability activities; and the writing process.

EXAMPLES OF FIELD EXPERIENCE ACTIVITIES
The specific nature of the field experience varies depending on the subject matter and the characteristics and learning needs of students enrolled in the class. While we want you to be exposed to many aspects of school life, the primary goal of this experience is to provide a substantial amount of time to explore middle and secondary schools and to work directly with students in the school setting and within the appropriate subject areas. The following are typical field experience activities:
- Observe in a variety of classes;
- Confer with one or more teachers about the nature of the curriculum;
- Prepare instructional materials/lesson plans that integrate strategies for teaching literacy skills specific to your content area;
- Administer an informal reading inventory, graded word list, and cloze activity to a middle or secondary student;
- Plan and conduct tutoring sessions for individual or small group projects or enrichment activities;
- Check assignments and follow-up activities.

Students MUST wear black slacks and a School of Education polo to all PK-12 campuses. The shirts are available at the campus bookstore for student purchase.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Read the required text and other materials as assigned.

2. Participate actively in class discussions related to reading assignments and in small group activities. Your contributions should reflect thoughtful preparation prior to class.

3. Read and prepare a written critique of six journal articles that are specific to reading instruction in the six components of reading. One article should focus on issues related to teaching ESOL students. Also, come to class prepared to share the information with the class.

Read each article and then write a 1.5 to 2.0 page summary and response. Your paper should follow the APA format and must be Font 12 and double-spaced. You must have at least a one to one and one-half page summary and reflection of the information in the article, and then a personal reaction to the article. Discuss the article in terms of clarity and validity.
Ex: Did the author clearly state his/her purpose and is it clear, and was it adequately supported by the information given. Do you agree or disagree with the author (explain). Discuss the implications of the article for reading instruction in a content area classroom. How will what you learned from reading the article affect you as a content area teacher.

4. Develop lesson plans as specified by the instructor. These lessons will give you practice in selecting and teaching appropriate reading and study strategies within a content area. The lessons will include the following: 1) Word identification strategies (P.A. and Phonics), 2) Vocabulary strategy, 3) Pre-reading strategy, 4) During reading strategy, 5) After reading strategy, 6) writing strategy; 7) Fluency strategy. And 8) Study strategy. You will prepare for a 10-minute presentation to the class. Specific details for this assignment will be given during a class period. You will prepare a hand-out of the strategies that you selected to share with your classmates.

5. Administer an informal reading inventory and graded word list to a middle or high school student who has been identified as a Level 1 or Level 2 student on the FCAT. You will prepare an instructional assessment report for the student. Detailed directions for this activity will be given during a class period.

6. Complete 10 hours of field observations and submit brief reflection of each observation.

7. Complete Task 8.3.1, Subject Matter Curriculum and Trends – Assessment System Product/Performance Tasks. The task will be considered “demonstrated” when a minimum score of 70% is achieved AND the criterion for the individual task is met. The task/artifact will be considered “partially demonstrated” or “not demonstrated” when the score is below 70% OR the criteria established for the individual task is not met. A task judged as “partially demonstrated” or “not demonstrated” may be resubmitted for the purpose of demonstrating the accomplished practice indicator. The original grade will be used when calculating the course average. Points will not be deducted or added when calculating the course average.

8. Complete a performance task for using a trade book in the middle/secondary content that you have chosen to focus on. Details for this activity are provided on P. 384 in your text (Response Journal).

9. Observe one content area teacher and one intensive reading teacher (middle/high school) for at least a fifty minute period class period. Write a report (minimum of two pages) on how the teacher incorporated reading strategies and/or writing strategies in his/her class. An observation guide will be provided.

10. Reading/Learning/Literacy Strategy Notebook – Students will keep an organized reading/literacy strategy notebook that can be used in a content area or grade level. The notebook is an organized resource notebook of resources to aid in planning instruction. It should contain strategies that will be given from the class hand-outs, strategies guided by class activities and/or other resources. Pertinent educational articles will also be included, as well as the Next Generation Sunshine State Standards and the Common Core State Standards. The intent of this project is to create a basic collection of potentially useful strategies, activities, resources that are literacy-based and content related in a format that could be expanded during future teaching semesters.

   This collection of resources will be kept in an organized notebook with the following divisions: Pre-Reading, During Reading, Post Reading, Vocabulary, Activating Prior Knowledge, Read-Alouds, Graphic Organizers, Writing Across the Curriculum, Summarizing, Web-Sites, Book Lists (including picture books for reading and writing concept development) and informational articles for reading in the content or articles that focus on each of the six components of reading.

11. Conduct a readability analysis on a current textbook being used in your selected content area. More specific information to complete this assignment will be provided during coverage of Chapter 4 in the text.

12. Exams and quizzes. There will be two major exams (mid-semester and final) and weekly quizzes on the assigned chapters. The average of the quizzes will count as a third exam grade.

EXPECTATIONS
Students are expected to be conscientious and take their work seriously. They should have high expectations for themselves and expect others to act accordingly. In order to clarify expectations, the following practices will apply.

❖ Attendance is mandatory. Attendance is considered an important part of the participation grade. Attendance and participation points are 100. An absence will be 7 points deducted. Remember this is a night class and it is equivalent to three class periods. If you must be absent, you are expected to inform the instructor prior to class. It is your responsibility as a student to contact a class member or the instructor to learn of class proceedings and assignments required for the next class.

❖ Tardy: Arriving more than fifteen minutes late or leaving more than fifteen minutes before class is dismissed is considered tardy. Three tardies equal one absence.
- Make-Up: Make up-exams will be given only under extreme circumstances and must have prior approval of the instructor.

- Preparedness: Students are expected to be prepared for class and to submit required assignments in a timely manner. All assignments will be due at the beginning of the class on the due date, unless otherwise directed. Turning in an assignment late will result in a 10 point deduction. Late assignments will not be accepted if more than one week late.

- Ethics: As members of the Chipola College Secondary Education academic community, students commit themselves to honesty. Honesty in academic work is vital and students should not knowingly act in ways which erode that integrity. Accordingly, action s of or tolerance of cheating, plagiarism, bribery, conspiracy, misrepresentation, or other violations of the Chipola College Student Code of Conduct will result in disciplinary action. Disciplinary action can include: degree program modification, grade reduction, suspension or expulsion.

- Written Work: All written assignments will be judged on accuracy of content; comprehensiveness, typography and design; correct usage and grammar; correct capitalization; spelling and punctuation; clarity of thought; and logical order and sequence. Moreover, students are expected to adhere to specified formats; use various sentence patterns and structure; make use of transitional words and expressions; and maintain appropriate focus.

- Oral Presentation: All oral presentations will be judged on correct pronunciation and enunciation; projection; effective use of gestures; meaningful use of visuals; attention getting procedures; maintenance of audience interest; correct use of language; and degree of presenter enthusiasm and interest in topic.
