Scholarship named in memory of Clark Maxwell

Clark Maxwell Jr., former director of Florida's Community College system, died Jan. 18 at his Palm Coast home. He was 76.

The Florida College System Foundation has created the Clark Maxwell Memorial Scholarship Fund in his memory. The cheerful, curly haired Maxwell was the Senate's Republican leader when he resigned in 1984 to become executive director of what was the State Board of Community Colleges. He held that post until 1997 when he retired.

Community and state colleges now are under the State Board of Education. Their top administrator is Chancellor of Florida Colleges Willis Holcombe, who has asked the schools to fly their flags at half-staff through Friday in Maxwell's honor.

Chipola College president Dr. Gene Prough, who considered Maxwell a mentor, said, "Florida Community Colleges never had a better friend than Clark Maxwell. He worked hard to help build a system that provides countless opportunities for students in Florida." Maxwell's wife Margo requested that the scholarship fund be established as an option for those who would like to commemorate his life in a very constructive way. The collected funds will be matched, if possible, and distributed to students.

Born in 1934, Maxwell is credited with raising the profile of Florida's community colleges while keeping their local autonomy as well as launching joint legislative lobbying efforts among community colleges.

In 1974, Maxwell began representing Melbourne in the Legislature, serving four years in the House and six in the Senate. Maxwell served on the House and Senate education committees and as Senate Minority leader. He was twice named "Legislator of the Year" by the Florida Association of Community Colleges. Part of Maxwell's legacy includes the Clark Maxwell, Jr. Lifelong Learning Center at Brevard Community College, the Clark Maxwell, Jr. Library at Lake-Sumter Community College and the Clark Maxwell, Jr. Marine Environmental Habitat and Observatory at The Florida Keys Community College.

Maxwell was married to wife Margo, had two daughters and one son from a previous marriage, Marsha, Judy and Clark III. Donors may contribute by making checks payable to: Clark Maxwell Memorial Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 10503, Tallahassee, FL 32302.
