Dance Alive to perform at Chipola

Dance Alive National Ballet Company will fill the Chipola College stage Sunday, March 18, at 2 p.m., as part of the Chipola Artist Series.

From classical ballet to physically outrageous contemporary dance, ranging from Bach to African music, the program starts with a roar and never slows down. The company features an international roster of award winning dancers who have a non-stop energy and love for dance that is at the source of the company's undeniable success. Dance Alive has toured the U.S. and Costa Rica under the auspices of the National Endowment for the Arts, South Arts, Allied Concert Services, Conciertos Internacionales and the Florida Department of State.

Auditions for childrens show Monday

All actors ages 17 and up are invited to audition. Actors should be ready to act and sing with lots of movement. No audition packets are needed.

Join the cast for the last show in the "old theatre" which is centered on the move to the new theatre. Changes are coming, but someone forgot to tell the zany characters from the all of the past children's show. Come along with the cast as they assemble scenes and musical number from past seasons. Don't be surprised to see Snoopy, the three little pigs, or even Alice in Wonderland.

Hold on as this roller coaster of an adventure weaves storylines and characters together in exciting and unexpected ways, reintroducing some of Chipola's theatre most memorable characters.

Chipola nursing program presents at simulation conference

Students and faculty from the Chipola College Health Science program recently presented programs at the Human Patient Simulation Network (HPSN) Conference in Tampa. Chipola's Associate Degree Nursing Program presented two sessions at the conference. Through an interactive, scenario-based simulation session, the group shared information on reducing catheter-associated urinary tract infections (CAUTI) and decreasing delirium in the acute care hospital.

Chipola nursing students Robin Simpkins and Rhonda Johns participated in the presentations and also entered the Medical Technologies (METI) Cup challenge, a rigorous competition to perform assessment skills and provide treatment in a staged simulation scenario.

Chipola Skills Lab Coordinator, Amy Sampson, and Dean of the Chipola School of Health Sciences, Vickie Stephens, presented the "Project Plan Proposal to Reduce/ Prevent Catheter-Associated Urinary Tract Infections (CAUTI) and Implement a Delirium Assessment in a Rural Acute Care Hospital." Jackson Hospital is a partner with Chipola and serves as the practice site to implement the project plan proposal. The reduction of catheter-associated urinary tract infections (CAUTI) is one of the National Patient Safety Goals for 2012 as issued by Joint Commission.

Five colleges and universities attended with 42 students presenting in the plenary sessions. The Chipola group also attended other innovative learning sessions during the week.
