President to retire in March

After 42 years in education, Chipola president Dr. Gene Prough has decided to retire. He presented his retirement letter to the college District Board of Trustees at the Nov. 19 board meeting.

Prough said, "It is with great excitement and sadness that I announce my retirement effective March 31, 2014. Thank you for helping me in making a difference in the lives of our people through education. What a privilege and honor it has been to work with such a special group of folks; faculty, staff, board members, and students. I feel like it is now time to see my grandchildren grow and to be with my wife and children, catch some fish, enjoy the woods, hunting, and traveling around some. Chipola has been my life for the past two decades. I will forever be an ambassador for Chipola and will always be willing to do anything I can to help the college."

During his tenure at the college, Prough led several changes, including the college's name from Chipola Junior College to Chipola College in order to begin offering bachelor's degrees in 2002. Chipola offered the first Bachelor's degree classes in 2004 with degrees in Secondary Education with majors in Mathematics and Science. Elementary Education, Exceptional Student Education and English Education are now part of the curriculum.

Since 2006, dozens teachers have graduated from Chipola to begin careers in area schools. The Education program has nearly a 100% placement rate.

Prough, a 1968 graduate of Chipola, became the college's ninth president in 2002. He served as executive vice president of the college from 1997 to 2002. He also served as interim president in 2004-05. Prough first came to Chipola as Director of Vocational Education in 1994.

During his time as president and executive vice-president, Dr. Prough has provided leadership that enabled the college to obtain more than $30 million in building projects and more than $20 million in federal and state grants. The college's $16 million Center for the Arts which opened in 2012, was the largest project in the history of the college. A Box section in the Center is designated the President's Box in honor of Dr. Prough's support of the project. A new Student Services building was completed in 2005. A new entrance road to the college—Prough Drive—opened in 2011.

Under Prough's leadership, the Chipola Foundation has grown from $2 million to more than $16 million. Endowments and scholarships in the foundation provide as much as $1 million annually in direct aid to students.

Prough and his wife, Priscilla, also a Chipola graduate, live in Chipley. Both of their children and two of their grandchildren are Chipola alumni.

Prough said he will work until March 2014 in order to give the board and college officials time to prepare for the transition. Four board members—chair Gary Clark, Gina Stuart, Danny Ryals and Tommy Lassman—volunteered to serve on an internal search committee. They will meet to evaluate internal candidates Monday, Dec. 9, at noon. A special called meeting of the full Board of Trustees is set for Dec. 12, at 5:30 p.m. According to board attorney Jeff Goodman, the board has three options: name a president; name an acting president; or form a larger search committee to solicit applications from outside the college.

The number of scholarship contracts to be awarded varies from year-to-year based upon the donations from businesses and individuals, as well matching state dollars. Since 2004, the Washington TSIC has raised over $450,000, which excludes the state match and brings total value of scholarships to approximately $900,000. The Washington County TSIC celebrates 9 College graduates with some pursuing advanced degrees, 51 in college or technical programs and 36 working towards high school graduation and a scholarship.

The TSIC program is now organized regionally. Chipola College is the regional coordinator for Washington, Jackson, Holmes, Calhoun, and Liberty counties, and Mary Helen Take Stock mentor of the year Jeanne Lavender accepts the award from Gary Hartman.

Smith at Chipola College is the TSIC Program Manager who works directly with the county sponsored organizations and school boards.

For more information about the program to volunteer or to make a donation, contact David Solger, at 638-1276 or Mary Helen Smith at (850) 718-2428.

The Chipola Physical Plant recently held a retirement party for their director Harry Fleener. Here, Fleener (center) accepts a new rod and reel from Chipola president Dr. Gene Prough and Louy Harris, Capital Projects and Facilities Administrator. Fleener has worked at the college since 1996.
