Chipola Ensembles concert is Nov. 5

The fall performance of the Chipola College ensembles is set for Tuesday, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m. in the Center for the Arts.

The free concert will feature jazz, an antiphonal choir, and voices from throughout the community that will give celestial meaning to the season.

The Chipola Chamber Chorus will be joined by the Community Chorus featuring local voices from the area. The choral ensembles are directed by Chipola vocal instructor, Dale Heidebrecht, who joined the Chipola faculty last year from the University of Colorado.

The Rock and Jazz Ensemble will perform a variety of jazz, swing, and popular music styles. Improvisation is heavily featured and the element of uncertainty will keep the audience listening for what will happen next. The Rock and Jazz Ensemble are under the direction of Craig Bean. This eclectic evening of music is free. For information, contact the Fine and Performing Arts Department at Chipola College at 850-718-2277.

Sneak Peek Dinner Theatre

The public is invited to enjoy a unique behind-the-scenes look at Chipola Theatre at a Sneak Peek Dinner Theatre of “The 1940’s Radio Hour,” Tuesday, Dec. 3, in the Chipola Center for the Arts.

Dinner begins at 6 p.m. with a pre-performance chat with Director Charles Sirmon. Following the steak dinner, guests will move to the theatre for a sneak peek at the dress rehearsal.

Tickets are $25 per person which includes dinner and theatre admission. Tables of eight are available for $200. Reservation deadline is Nov. 26. No additional seating will be available the night of the event. The show may not be suitable for children under 10 years of age.

The event is sponsored by the Chipola Chapter of the Association of Florida Colleges (AFC), the professional association for Florida’s 28 state colleges, their boards, employees, retirees and associates.

Tickets are on sale through Nov. 26 and may be purchased at the Chipola Center for the Arts Box Office, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to noon on Friday.

For ticket information, call Evelyn Ward at 718-2257 or Lillie Hamil at 718-2375.

Chipola’s Continuing Education department has partnered with ed2go to offer two online ACT/SAT prep courses.

Part I, the first prep course, focuses on the verbal sections of the standardized tests: reading, English, science, and writing. Part II, the second prep course, focuses on the math sections of the standardized tests and includes lessons in arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and basic statistics. The cost of each six-week course is $120.

The courses are designed to prepare participants for question types on both the ACT and SAT and will give pointers in time management, anxiety relief, scoring, and general standardized test-taking. Weekly assignments encourage participants to work with classmates and instructor to maximize performance on all aspects of the ACT and SAT.

To learn more, call Alicia Hatcher, Continuing Education Coordinator at Chipola, at 850-718-2405 or visit the college’s ed2go site online at www.ed2go.com/chipola.

Students learn at STEM meeting

More than 150 high school students attended the second FloridaLearns STEM Scholars Regional Forum at Chipola College Friday, Oct. 25. Students conducted lab experiments and physics activities, and learned from two area doctors.

Steven Spence, M.D., and Susan Compton, M.D., made presentations to the students about the renal system. Dr. Spence and Dr. Compton are both graduates of Marianna High School. Spence is a family physician with Internal Medical Associates in Marianna. Dr. Compton is a nephrologist with Nephrology Associates in Panama City.

Chipola professors and high school faculty led students in STEM activities. Some students participated in an investigative challenge on the renal system. Others participated in a design challenge in which they constructed and launched water rockets.

The event was organized by the FloridaLearns STEM Scholars Project, a collaborative effort of the Panhandle Area Educational Consortium (PAEC) targeting gifted and talented students in grades 9-12. The initiative is part of a multi-million dollar grant awarded to the consortia for the development of an enriched and rigorous STEM education campaign to reach students attending Florida's rural schools.

Lexie Basford of Marianna High pulls the string to launch her water-powered rocket at the FloridaLearns STEM Scholars Regional Forum Friday, Oct. 25.

Tyler Wertenberger of Graceville High and Calen Masai of Blountstown High prepare to launch their water-powered rocket at the STEM Forum hosted by Chupola College.

According to Brenda Crouch, FloridaLearns STEM Scholars Project Manager, "These events offer the students a chance to meet other gifted and talented students in the region but more importantly, they help build excitement and optimism that a STEM-related education and career are both achievable and attainable."

Chipola College has embraced the STEM project and committed personnel, space, and is assisting with planning future events. College president Dr. Gene Prough, says, "Chipola is proud to be a part of this program to encourage students to continue their education in the areas of science, engineering, technology and mathematics."

Chipola to host girls Report Classic

The Chipola Lady Indians open the season Nov. 7 when they host the three-day Collegiate Girls Basketball Report Classic.

Last season, the Lady Indians finished second in the Florida/Region VIII Basketball Tournament and went on to finish in the Elite 8 in the NJCAA National Tournament.

Girls Report Classic games begin Thursday, Nov. 7, with games at 5 p.m., Gulf Coast vs. Darton; and 8 p.m., Chipola vs. East Florida State.

Friday, games include: 10 a.m., Tallahassee vs. Darton; noon, Santa Fe vs. Northwest Florida State; 2 p.m., Georgia Perimeter vs. Broward; 4 p.m., Pensacola vs. Georgia Highlands; 6 p.m., Gulf Coast vs. East Florida State and 8 p.m., Chipola vs. South Georgia Tech.

Saturday games include: 10 a.m., Tallahassee vs. Santa Fe; noon, Northwest Florida vs. Georgia Perimeter; 2 p.m., East Florida State vs. Darton; 4 p.m., Pensacola vs. South Georgia Tech; 6 p.m., Gulf Coast vs. Georgia Highlands and 8 p.m., Chipola vs. Broward.

Four Lady Indians (pictured above) were named in the Collegiate Girls Basketball Report Top 35 preseason NJCAA player rankings: Chipola's Khadijah Ellison, Ebony Wells, Rahni Bell, and Treyvonna Brooks. Ellison, a sophomore transfer who sat out last year at Chipola, is ranked as the number one point guard in the country and the number three player overall. Wells, a 6'2 transfer from Florida State, is ranked as the number four center and 22nd player overall. Bell, who last year averaged 7.9 points per game for the Indians, is ranked as the number four shooting forward and 30th overall. Brooks, providing 5.6 points and 5.5 rebounds per game, is ranked as the number nine power forward and 33rd overall.

"The individual ratings are a testament to the work ethic they have demonstrated throughout the summer and preseason workouts", said Coach Greg Franklin. "The key will be for us to continue to improve as a collective unit."
