Chipola's "Grease" earns Superior

Chipola College's sold-out production of "Grease" recently earned a Superior rating from the Florida Community College Activities Association.

PCC's Director of Theatre, Rodney Whatley served as adjudicator for the performance. Whatley wrote, "A combination of spot-on and innovative casting, great singing, great dancing, great character role portrayals, and iconic acting on the part of the leads, along with superior sets, costumes, lighting and music provided me with the best evening of theatre I have had in years and an unadulterated ranking of Superior."

Individual Recognition in acting was awarded to Mike Milton who played the part of Danny Zuko and to Katie Brown who played Patty Simcox. Chris Manasco was recognized for Outstanding Choreography.

Whatley wrote, "The dancing in GREASE, both the design of the choreography and the execution of it by the performers, was sublime. The evening was so fun-filled that it is difficult to pick stand-out moments. The eye-popping gymnastics incorporated into the choreography took it to a level I have not seen in any community college production. There was not a single moment I did not enjoy. This was truly a great night out at the theatre!"

Charles Sirmon, Chipola Director of Theatre says he is very proud of his cast and crew for the long hours and dedication throughout the run.
