Students honored for academic excellence

Chipola College officials recognized the academic accomplishments of two academic students during a press conference Thursday.

Glen Thompson of Malone was named to USA Today's All-American Academic Second Team and to the All Florida Academic First Team.

Alicia Hatcher was named to USA Today's All-American Academic Third Team and to the All Florida Academic First Team. She also was one of 20 students recognized internationally as a Guistwhite Scholar.

Both students were featured in an April issue of USA Today. Both students are key members of the Chipola Nu Chi Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the International Honor Society for Two-Year Colleges. Chipola earned a Distinguished Service Hallmark Award at the recent international convention. Alicia Hatcher was presented a Distinguished Chapter Officer Award.

Glen Thompson is the Service officer for the Chipola's Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. Much of his work has been environmental in nature. During his freshmen year he led a project to purchase the rights to Al Gore's movie "An Inconvenient Truth." He rented the local movie theater and provided two free public showings a month before the national release.

Thompson also has worked to help his community prepare for disaster by organizing a Community Emergency Response Training Team on campus.

He worked with the Adopt-a-school and Project Prom initiatives for Hurricane Katrina victims in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. The Chipola team provided school supplies and encouragement to the students.

Thompson coordinated breast cancer awareness seminar on campus and raised money for the American Cancer Society, Habitat and United Way

He serves as a volunteer coach, referee and mentor for youth sports. He is a volunteer with the Jackson County Association for Retarded Citizens and Partners for Pets Animal Shelter. He coordinated a leadership conference at Chipola for area high school seniors and the Leaders of Promise conference for juniors.

Thompson is the son of Marcia and Tommy Thompson.

Alicia Hatcher was named to USA Today's All-American Academic Third Team and to the All Florida Academic First Team. She was one of 20 students recognized internationally as a Guistwhite Scholar. She is also a Coca-Cola Foundation Scholar. An early-admission student to Chipola, she is a member of Chipola Honors program, president of the Mu Alpha Theta Math Honorary and Public Relations officer for Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society.

She was a leader in Phi Theta Kappa's Project Prom for hurricane Katrina victims at Bay St. Louis High School in Mississippi. She led a team of Chipola students who collected 250 prom gowns and put on a prom for students at the hurricane-ravaged school.

Hatcher also is a Student Ambassador and a member of the Student Government Association. She has worked to promote literacy to students of all ages. She led a project to provide each elementary student in the district a free book. She also organized a book-signing for Paula Stark, author of Abraham the Alligator.

In the Characters with Class program Chipola students visited local schools and wore costumes to represent characters from various books. The "Behind the Scenes," project brought middle schools to the college to construct life-size scenes from a novel they had read.

Hatcher also worked to conduct a free ACT prep course.

Hatcher is the daughter of Chuck and Patte Hatcher of Greenwood.

Chipola English instructor Pam Rentz is faculty adviser to the college chapter of Phi Theta Kappa.

Chipola College officials recognized the accomplishments of the college Brain Bowl team during a press conference at the college on Thursday.

Chipola captured the school's first ever state Brain Bowl championship in March and finished second in the NAQT National Tournament in St. Louis in April.

Chipola's biggest wins at the National Tournament were against Wake Forest and Toronto, which helped Chipola advance to play for the JUCO National Championship.

Chipola lost to the University of Florida on a tie-breaker question. The team scored wins over Faulkner, Wake Forest and Gulf Coast. The Chipola team also played against several prestigious universities, including: Harvard, Dartmouth, Stanford, MIT, and Brandeis.

Chipola finished the tournament with a better record than all other junior college besides Valencia which won its fifth National Championship.

Chipola College team members are Mark Hodge, Jantzen Whitehead, Chuck Bryant, Trey Paul and Mitchell Whitehead. Chipola coaches are Stan Young and Dr. Robert Dunkle.

Brain Bowl coach Stan Young, said, "Coach Robert Dunkle and I want to thank the college and the community for the tremendous support this year. We have been overwhelmed by the amount of people that have shown a genuine interest in our program."

Chipola captured four tournament wins this season: the FCCAA State Championship, Faulkner State ACBL Academic Tournament, Seaside Academic Tournament and the NAQT Georgia Sectional. Chipola made it to the semi-finals at the Delta Burke Invitational in Orlando and the Tom Deaton Classic in Tallahassee.

Chipola math prof wins Best Practice

Chipola College mathematics professor Dr. Cherry Ward won a Best Practice Award at the Florida Association of Community Colleges Instructional Innovation Commission's Spring Conference April 10 in Ft. Pierce.

The competition gives community college faculty members the opportunity to share innovative teaching strategies with faculty members across the state.

Ward's presentation on "Test Journals: Helping the Under-Prepared Student Succeed" was chosen from three finalists as the state winner.

According to Ward, many under-prepared students perform poorly on tests because of anxiety and a lack of practice. Because of these factors, tests may not be accurate measures of their abilities. By utilizing test journals, tests can measure performance and provide an opportunity for students to correct their errors.

Dr. Ward says, "I began using the test journal, an instructional innovation which gives students a second chance to show their skills through the process of error-analysis. By finding their errors, students have another opportunity to show their skill or correct their thinking and earn back half of their points. Also by discovering the errors in their thinking, they can perform better on subsequent tests and the final exam. Most importantly, they can gain the skills to complete the course successfully.

The process is a simple; tests are returned to students with a grade and the number of points that can be earned by completing the test journal. Students must correct the problem and explain their error. Each problem must be worked correctly and must have a journal entry. Students may get assistance from anyone. Students have a week to return the journal at which time tests are re-graded with points added for completing the journaling process.

Ward explained, "I do not give partial credit when grading; my students must earn it. I believe that completing test journals is extremely beneficial for the under-prepared student. Some score very low on the first couple of tests because they are non-traditional students who have not practiced their math skills in some time. By completing test journals they are able to keep their hopes of success alive. Test journals are a simple but effective way to establish and maintain high expectations and to help all math students achieve success."

Ward also will present her "Test Journal" program at the FACC State Convention to in November.

In addition to teaching mathematics and education classes at Chipola, Ward serves as facilitator of the college's Quality Enhancement Plan/Title III project.
