

Early sellout expected for Chipola's Ballyhoo

Pulitzer Prize-winner Alfred Uhry made history with the poignant "Driving Miss Daisy." From Oct. 23-26, the Chipola College Theater proudly presents Uhry's first drama since "Daisy," the touching, thought-provoking "The Last Night of Ballyhoo."

It is Christmas, 1939, and the cream of Atlanta's Jewish crop are preparing for the Jewish social event of the season, Ballyhoo. Sure, World War II has just begun, but no one has time for that. Ballyhoo approaches - and Lala needs a date. But not just any date; he must be able to rub elbows with the social elite. In short, he must fit in with "the right kind."

"The Last Night of Ballyhoo," a comic drama, is the story of intra-racial prejudice between German-Jewish Atlantans and "the other kind" - Jews of Eastern European decent. Uhry's play depicts the attempts of Southern Jews in the late '30s to assimilate with Southern Episcopalians. In an effort to climb the social ladder in an exclusive Southern society, members of the affluent Jewish community abandoned their Jewish heritage to adopt gentile customs, such as Christmas trees and Easter egg hunts, and in turn their own brand of social snobbery. In "Ballyhoo," Uhry explores these themes by focusing on two young women of German-Jewish descent, Sunny and Lala, who take very different routes to romance. Their romantic encounters tear a family apart and ultimately bring it back together again.

The play opens on the eve of Atlanta's greatest social occasion, the opening of "Gone With the Wind," an event that drew Clark Gable, Vivian Leigh and a host of visiting socialites to Atlanta. All eyes turned toward the sleepy, Southern capitol.

Coincidentally, "The Last Night of Ballyhoo" was commissioned to coincide with another event that drew international attention to Atlanta, the 1996 Olympic Games. "Ballyhoo," won a Tony Award and the screen adaptation won an Academy Award. The play was originally presented as part of the 1996 Olympic Arts Festival. The show played to sold out houses before moving on to Broadway where it earned 1997's Tony Award for Best Play and the 1997 Outer Critics Circle Award.

While pride, prejudice and the denial of one's heritage are at the core of "Ballyhoo," the story is at heart a love story. Uhry says, "What I try to do is write about these challenging themes through a love story. It's about things that seem fairly light-hearted. But in all that, I try to get into really anti-Semitic feelings that some of these Jews on Habersham Road had. To them, it was important to be as Southern and as white bread as you could be." Uhry also wrote the screenplays for "Rich in Love" and "Mystic Pizza."

The Chipola production opens Thursday, Oct. 23, with special Opening Night Gala to benefit the Anna K. Williams Memorial Scholarship Fund, scheduled at 6 p.m. An early sellout is expected for the four performances that include a Sunday matinee.

Tickets for the gala are $25. Show tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for 18 and under. Both are available in the Chipola Business Office.

Continuing Education offers motivational workshops

The Chipola College Continuing Education Department is offering new motivational workshops. These workshops can be used by employers to express their appreciation for a job well done and increase their employee capacity at the same time. Groups may register for the following workshops, or on-site seminars may be scheduled at the company's convenience.

Whale Done:

The Power of Positive Relationships

This program was written based on the new book by Ken Blanchard. In Whale Done! Ken Blanchard shows how to make accentuating the positive and redirecting the negative are the best tools to increase productivity and improve organizational performance. These techniques are remarkably easy to master and can be applied equally well in your personal life.

This workshop will be offered Nov. 16 from 9 a.m. - 12 noon at a cost of $49.

The Attitude Virus:

Curing Negativity in the Workplace

Attitude viruses may not be level 4 biohazards, but they can create an epidemic. This power program illustrates their many forms and one common result: negativity in the workplace. It's a poignant lesson on how negativity spreads, impacting productivity, motivation and profitability. This workshop will be offered Nov. 16 from 8 a.m. - 12 noon at a cost of $69.

Four year programs offered at Chipola

The University Center at Chipola College offers many opportunities for students to pursue bachelor's and advanced degrees on the Chipola campus.

Chipola was recently approved by SACS and authorized by the Florida Department of Education to offer its own Bachelor of Science Degree in Secondary Education with majors in Mathematics and Science. Classes begin in January of 2004. Graduates of this program will be certified to teach math or science in middle or high school. Students who are close to earning an AA degree, and have a strong background in math or science, should schedule an advising appointment to ensure the best track for program entry. Call 718-2276.

Chipola's University Center also offers various degree programs in collabora-

After All, You're the Supervisor!

This enthusiastically received release offers important lessons for new and seasoned supervisors alike, illustrating the exciting – and challenging – transition moving from team member to team supervisor. Our program clearly addresses effective supervision, teaching new and seasoned supervisors how to reach for, and achieve, greater success. This workshop will be offered Dec. 8 a.m. - 12 noon at a cost of $69.

Eat That Frog! - Stop Procrastinating and Get More Done in Less Time

This program was written based on Brian Tracey's new book, Eat That Frog. If the first thing you had to do everyday was to eat a frog, the rest of your day could not get any worse. This simple but powerful strategy teaches you to think of the one thing each day that would have the greatest impact on your productivity and do that thing first. This program will review strategies for eating frogs and ways to stop procrastinating and get more done in less time. This workshop will be offered Dec. 14 from 9 a.m. - 12 noon at a cost of $49.

Team Building,

What Makes a Good Team Player?

Based on the best-seller Parker Team Player Survey, this program explores how team players can complement, challenge, and inspire one another to new performance heights. This workshop will be offered Dec. 14 from 8 a.m. - 12 noon at a cost of $69.
