More students at Chipola this Fall

Chipola Junior College has more students this Fall and those students are taking more classes.

A total of 1,815 students were enrolled through Friday, Aug. 23, the final day of late registration, up five percent over last Fall's 1,728 total. Full-time Equivalency (FTE), an average calculation of the number of hours students take, is up more than eight percent to 479, compared to 442 last Fall.

CJC president Dr. Dale O'Daniel says, "We're very excited about the increase. I believe that we have been responsive to the needs of our students." The president pointed to three programs that positively affected enrollment: (1) a new program for local school paraprofessionals; (2) the new Partners program (a high school recruiting/advising effort); and (3) expanded university offerings on campus.

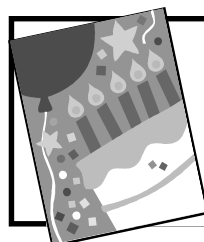

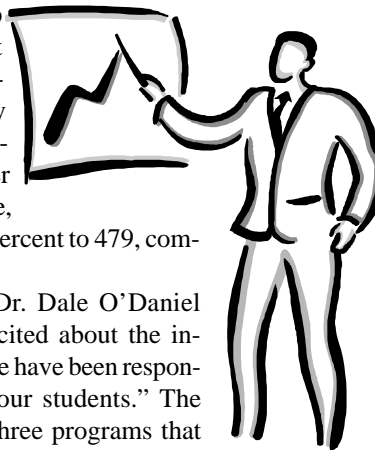

A total of 80 paraprofessionals from three county school districts—Holmes, Jackson and Washington—enrolled in a new program established by CJC officials in response to requirements of the Federal No Child Left Behind Act. Paraprofessionals (teachers' aides) who work in schools that receive Federal Title I funding are required to earn the equivalent of a two-year associate's degree by January 2006. CJC offers a number of afternoon courses just for the paraprofessionals.

As part of the new Partners with CJC program volunteers from the college visited the 16 high schools in the district for several hours each week last spring. The volunteers met with hundreds of students to share information about college major requirements, registration and financial aid. College officials reported increases in college applications, and applications for Foundation scholarships. Some 720 students received more than $547,000 in aid from the Foundation.

The presence of four-year degree programs at Chipola also has positively affected enrollment. Dr. Kitty Myers, Dean of University programs at CJC, says, "Many university center students must take pre-requisites at CJC to prepare for four-year programs. This is especially true for students preparing for FSU's anticipated Business Administration degree and Chipola's own four-year degree in Secondary Education that begins in Fall 2003." An estimated 300 students are currently enrolled in university programs offered on the CJC campus.

Students may continue to register for many of Chipola's Workforce Development programs and Continuing Education courses throughout the semester.

For more information, call the CJC Registration Office at 718-2211.

Phi Theta Kappa promotes awareness

September is Childhood Cancer Month. To promote awareness, Phi Theta Kappa is encouraging everyone to wear a gold ribbon during the month.

The Gold Ribbon theme was created in 1997 by Gigi Thorsen in honor of her daughter. The ribbon has since become an emblem for all who are dedicated to research, treatment, advocacy, and care that will benefit children and adolescents with cancer.

More than 12,000 children are diagnosed with cancer every year. Despite remarkable research progress, cancer still kills more children than any other disease.

Things You Might Not Have Known

The telephone was not widely appreciated for the first 15 years because people did not see a use for it. In 1876, an internal memo read: "This telephone has too many shortcomings to be seriously considered as a means of communication."
